FROM the PRESIDENT

As I write this, I am looking out my window at 109 Jamison Street, observing the dogwood trees that are bursting with blooms, proclaiming the beauty of Spring and Easter!

Even as a child, I was amazed that dogwood trees always bloomed at the right time. They would come forth and proclaim to the world the good news of Christ between Passover and the Resurrection day. It is nothing more than “Signs of Love,” and for sure, God’s timing is always perfect!!

The little white crosses with burned marks on each petal are God’s way to remind us and softly whisper that He loves us. He not only revealed His love with this “life-giving” sacrifice, but He also reminds us through creation that something happened. It is a sign of...

Something beautiful...
Something unimaginable...
Something that makes sense out of everything else...

As we move forward and begin the implementation of our new strategic plan/testimony, A Decade of Dreams, our Connie Maxwell family stands amazed at the perfect timing and faithfulness of a God who constantly sends us “Signs of Love” about His deep, abiding care for our children and families, and His perfect timing.

Because of these “Signs of Love,” we stand ready with great anticipation and dream-filled expectations to heal and minister to the brokenness of those precious little ones placed in our care. This issue of CONNIE MAXWELL features stories, pictures, and testimonies about the perfect timing and faithfulness of our loving Father.

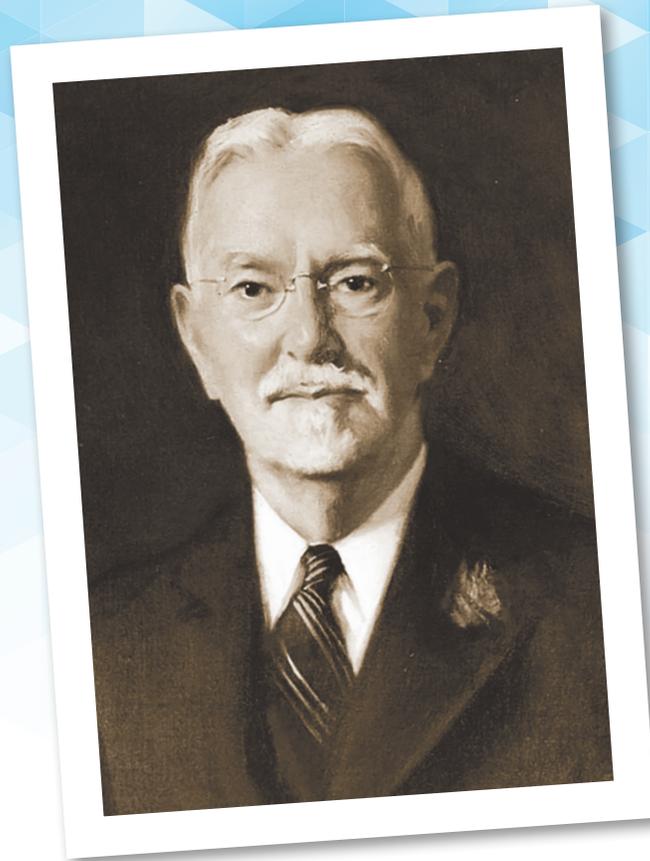

We hope you enjoy this testimony of God’s faithfulness and will be “inspired to action” in praying for and supporting our ministry in the most committed and deepest way. We are counting on you to walk beside us in this quest for excellence in healing and ministry.

More importantly, God is depending on you to remain committed to the “least of these.”

For the Dreams of Children and Families,

“Boys, don’t get in a rut, if children need services and help which we haven’t got, try to learn where you can get it.”

A Decade of Dreams

“This is not just a 10-year plan. It is a compilation of a lot of people’s lives. It is a moment that has been put together by God and orchestrated before the days we were even born.”

That is how Connie Maxwell President William D. Nicholson II describes the new strategic plan titled A Decade of Dreams.

The plan was formally approved by the Connie Maxwell Board of Trustees on February 4, 2021.

While he admits that it is a bit unorthodox, he holds onto the confidence that A Decade of Dreams was God-led and inspired throughout.

“I think that God wanted us to slowly and prayerfully listen for Him, and we did. We took three years,” said Nicholson. “Jesus is on every single page, and I’m proud of that.”

One way that Nicholson began the strategic planning process was by taking a deep-dive into the ministry’s history.

What he soon came to realize was that many of the dreams for the future mirrored the same plans they had in the past.

“As we prayed our way into this plan, it became obvious that we weren’t trying to do anything different,” said Nicholson. “We are just trying to bring the history, heritage, depth, richness, and excellence of what everyone did through the years into a new place—into the excellence of dreams for the future.”

As Nicholson continued to explore the rich history of Connie Maxwell, another theme emerged—the undeniable impact that Dr. A.T. Jamison had on the ministry.

Nicholson recalls how he was inspired by a story someone told him that happened on the back porch of his current home at 109 Jamison street. One afternoon back in 1947, Dr. Sam Smith and Dr. Murdoch visited Dr. Jamison, who only had a few more days to live.

Before they left, Dr. Jamison mustered enough strength to say, “Boys, don’t get in a rut, if our children need services and help which we haven’t got, try to learn where to get it.”

Those would be his last words to Dr. Smith, who would become the next president of Connie Maxwell and Dr. Murdoch.

“That story gave me a sense of who Jamison was and is in our lives today at Connie Maxwell,” said Nicholson. “I think it holds the essence of all we want to do over the next ten years. It holds the essence of Jamison’s insatiable curiosity, his devotion to Christ, his compassion, and his tenderness to children. I thought that was the most incredible way to leave his colleagues with this push to do the best they can for children.”

A Decade of Dreams dedicates 11 pages to the history of Connie Maxwell. In those pages, it highlights the strong relationship that the ministry has had with The Duke Endowment over the years. In fact, in the 1920s, Mr. James B. Duke provided the funding which made it possible to hire a social worker at $7000 a year.

That was a groundbreaking approach and partnership that opened the door to a new era of healing for Connie Maxwell’s ministry.

The plan shares how Dr. Jamison coined the term ‘mental hygiene.’ While he was devoted to Jesus and even served as the pastor for many years, he also cared about trying to help heal the mind, trauma, and brokenness that many of the children had experienced.

“All of those things were blazing a path of deeper healing and ministry for our children,” said Nicholson.

Throughout the history in A Decade of Dreams, we see that the past leadership didn’t just care about delivering core services and a deeper level of healing, but they cared about the expansion of services, the growth of financial security, and the beautification of the campus.

Nicholson found it very interesting that Dr. Jamison hired a landscape architect in 1920. “He thought that beauty could heal, and he wanted the best for our children,” Nicholson said. “Today, we aspire to do that same thing and make sure our children have the very best.”

The Evolution of a Dream

How did we get to where we are now? Nicholson describes what he calls the ‘Evolution of a Dream’ as a three-year process.

“I feel like this is how God moved us to where we are at this moment,” he said.

For Danny and Debra Nicholson, their story began in a Seafood restaurant in Garden City Beach during the summer of 2016 that he refers to as the ‘Calling.’

“I’ve told this story a thousand times, and I will tell it a thousand more,” said Nicholson. “I will never forget that little boy at the restaurant and my heart getting shattered.”

Nicholson recalls how a little African American foster child won their hearts over in the waiting area and then proceeded to ask them before leaving the restaurant, ‘Will you come to me in my dreams?’

Several weeks later, he saw the announcement for the Connie Maxwell presidency and remembered that little boy.

“I knew God had a message for us,” said Nicholson. “God wanted me to finish my own story. He wanted me to use all that I have learned and everybody I know to help these children find love and a home just like He did for me in February 1962.”

After coming to Connie Maxwell, Nicholson was led to begin a push for forgiveness and unity. “There were some really special holy moments that happened at this place,” said Nicholson. “I tried to bring those things into A Decade of Dreams as a testimony of God’s faithfulness to us.”

Nicholson is serious about Connie Maxwell remaining united together as a body of Christ. In fact, each member of the executive leadership team was asked to prayerfully create a personal 10-year spiritual growth plan.

“The calling brought us to forgiveness and unity, and forgiveness is the beginning of healing,” Nicholson said.

Other milestone events that have happened since the Nicholson’s came to Connie Maxwell include the New Beginnings celebration with Ruth Graham; For the Dreams of Children listening tour; A Call to Conversation gatherings across the state; A year of Preparation; the Branding Initiative; Growing the Future (personnel budget review and campus master plan work); the creation of our Vision, Mission, and Core Values; and the preparation of A Campaign for the Dreams of Children.

Throughout many of the events, activities, and discussions, Nicholson noticed that several themes began to emerge. These included unity, ministry and healing, campus enhancement and beautification, the expansion of programs and services, and the need to strengthen fundraising and create alternative revenue sources.

Restoring Faith and Family for their Future

As the vision of A Decade of Dreams began to slowly take shape, it became evident that it was time for the ministry to take a new look at our overall branding and messaging.

“We felt like it was important to make relevant, refresh and renew our brand to better reflect who we are now and who we want to become,” said Nicholson.

In 1947, Connie Maxwell Orphanage was changed to Connie Maxwell Children’s Home because it was no longer serving orphans exclusively.

New programs, such as Family Care and Foster Care, were added over the years, but many people still assumed that we only provided Residential Care.

“I would often meet people in the community who were surprised to learn that we provided more services beyond Residential Care,” said Vice President for Communications Julie Miner. “We began to feel like there were people out there who could benefit from our other programs, but we had to change some of those public misperceptions and do a better job of communicating those services.”

To help guide us through the rebranding process, AM Agency, a Christian consulting group out of Texas, was hired.

In October 2019, the Board of Trustees, staff, Alumni Board, and leaders from the Greenwood community participated in several days of focus group conversations to explore their ideas concerning the renewal of our name, message, and logo.

“That process laid the foundation for our new brand,” said Miner. “Three words that seemed to bubble up in those discussions were faith, family, and future. We couldn’t think of any better words that described who we are and what we are about.”

In August 2020, the Board of Trustees approved an initial new logo concept created by AM Agency. This design featured a little girl on a swing (Connie). Her eyes focused on an image that represented both a star and a cross.

Connie Maxwell
FAITH. FAMILY. FUTURE.

AM Agency also recommended a name change to Connie Maxwell Ministries.

“Ministries is a broader term that would help show we provide multiple services,” said Miner.

After those initial concepts were unveiled, the executive leadership team began to get some feedback from alumni and others about potential concerns with the new logo and name.

“We took our time, we prayed, and we waited,” said Nicholson. “We were not going to move forward unless we could bring as many people along with us as possible.”

AM Agency was asked to create some new logo concepts. “Because of the feedback we received, we wanted to make sure that these new concepts included both a boy and a girl,” said Miner. “We also wanted the name changed to Connie Maxwell Children’s Ministries.”

In October 2020, AM Agency created three overall logo concepts. A survey was sent out to the Board of Trustees, alumni, and current employees that included all three options. Everyone was asked to vote for their favorite image.

“Three words that seemed to bubble up in those discussions were faith, family, and future. We couldn’t think of any better words that described who we are and what we are about.”

Julie Miner

There were 201 total responses, with 76 staff members, 107 alumni, and 18 trustee members responding.

“I’m glad that we were able to involve so many people in this process who love and support this ministry with all their heart,” said Miner. “I know it made it better in the end.”

Nicholson agrees, “We spent a year and a half going through this process and we are thrilled with our new logo and name. It represents us in an excellent way.”

Other key items that came out of the process include a new mission and vision statement, as well as ten core values.

“We plan to hang these all over our campuses,” said Nicholson. “We want people to be constantly reminded about what we value and not lose site of our mission and vision.”

These Four Dreams will define Connie Maxwell Children's Ministries' mission and vision and set the course for becoming a national leader in healing and ministry for vulnerable children and families.

"I realize these are big dreams, but I would feel shameful to finish my life not believing that God can do everything that we dream and have faith for Him to accomplish," said Nicholson. COVID is for the birds:

Connie Maxwell staff create bird sanctuary at Maxwell Farms during pandemic

BY SARAH JANE SCHEIRER

Maxwell Farms stayed busy during last year's quarantine. Our staff took this opportunity to connect with our children, teach them new skills and create a place for them to heal. The chicken coop located next to Cooper Nixon Emergency Cottage has not been in use for years. Repairs were made, fences mended, and our staff was determined to establish a safe place for our children to learn about birds and what it means to care for them.

The first set of birds purchased were six chicks and six ducklings. From there, more chickens have been added, along with heritage turkeys, geese, and quail. Our children have learned so much from helping at the barn and have read books on working with their new animals properly. They have experienced what it means to care for birds, the dedication it takes, along with how to keep up with the flock. When asked how our children help, Houseparents Emily Kimberly and Dawn Callahan stated that "The children assist with so many tasks; they help with cleaning, laying new hay, feeding, collecting eggs, incubating eggs, filling feeders, and letting them out to free-range." While our children have been an enormous helping hand at Maxwell Farms, they, most importantly, are sharing the love that they have with the birds. Some of our children have even participated in remodeling the areas and repairing the fences.

Dawn said, "Just the other day, we had over sixteen new chicken hatchlings. This was an exciting time for our children and staff as they were able to hold the young chicks and care for them." While the hatchlings are an excellent way for children to learn, our Cooper Nixon staff members Dawn Callahan, Pat Callahan, Dee Miller, Emily Kimberly, and Jeremy Kimberly have confirmed that this has also become a great way to reach out to our children and help them grow. Dawn pointed out that "Our staff can communicate with each child about the birds, and in return, children become more comfortable within their new surroundings."

One child has become a bird enthusiast. Okenvious (age 10) has made it clear that this is his happy place. Using his allowance money, he bought two rare Ayam Cemani chickens. These are entirely black-feathered chickens that Okenvious himself has raised. They are now laying eggs, and our children are patiently waiting for our new hatchlings! Watching the eggs hatch has become a favorite activity at Maxwell Farms. This year, over sixty-eight chicks have hatched, and our first turkey egg has been laid.

There are more plans for our bird friends here on Maxwell Farms. According to Dawn, "more breeds may be added, and a larger fenced-in area will be built so that our birds will have more room outside to range while our children will have the extra space to care for the animals." There has also been talk of children taking their chickens to auction and learning more about finances regarding livestock. Maxwell Farms is growing, and so are the hearts of our children and families.

Okenvious has made many friends on Maxwell Farms. However chickens have become a favorite of his.

Cooper Nixon Emergency Cottage is available for short-term emergency placements and is located near the main campus of Connie Maxwell Children's Ministries in Greenwood, SC. The cottage is staffed by two adults and a nighttime care staff member. All of the meals, recreation, and study sessions are conducted in the cottage by staff. During the pandemic, Cooper Nixon has helped over fifteen children. While caring for children's physical needs, our staff saw a need for a quarantine activity and decided that this bird project was perfect for learning new skills, interests, and an exciting way to connect with our children.

Connie Maxwell to launch Foster Care pilot project

BY JULIA BELL

Connie Maxwell Children's Ministries is launching a Foster Care pilot project at the Greenwood campus. Applications are currently being accepted for a pioneering foster couple who would be given access to a fully furnished three-bedroom home as a place to welcome children currently in the Foster Care system into their own family's day-to-day life. According to Connie Maxwell Foster Care Director Paula Reed, the goal is for this opportunity to become more widely available to additional families in the future and to help meet these immediate needs in the lives of children.

"There is a great need for foster families in South Carolina," said Reed. "We hope providing this opportunity will help encourage a young family to step up and make an immediate impact in the life of a child that needs a home," Reed says.

The Foster Care House is being prepared for a strong, loving Christian family with a heart for children and who have been called to foster. Qualifications include a married couple at least 21 years of age with at least a high school diploma or GED. Applicants must also meet the state foster home license requirements. Applicants should understand the Foster Care House is not an opportunity for employment, and they would still need to have their own job and income. Connie Maxwell Children's Ministries has additional applicant qualification preferences, including experience with children and teenagers, the ability to understand and appropriately respond to hurting children and possess excellent time and resource management skills.

"We would want these foster parents to work with the biological family to model parenting and relationship skills," Reed explains.

The first Foster Care House resident family would obtain their foster home license and agree to accept placements of DSS foster children when needed. Ideally, Connie Maxwell Children's Ministries would like to place a foster sibling group of three to five children with this resident family while the biological family works toward reunification. The family will have access to Connie Maxwell facilities for the two-year licensing period and possibly be given the option to extend for two additional years.

Connie Maxwell Children's Ministries sees many benefits to this pilot project, in addition to the immediate security and assistance provided to foster care children and their families. Practically, the resident family would have housing flexibility, receive state board payments and clothing allowances, and minimal utility expenses while serving in this capacity. The Kingdom impacts include the opportunity to help children grow spiritually, socially, academically, and emotionally while together, with an added bonus of ample space to care for larger sibling groups.

"Each day, these children experience loss," said Vice President for Programs and Services Tim Duncan. "They may question where they will get their next meal, where they will sleep, who will take care of them when they are hurt, and who they will share a hug with for a job well done. These questions are ones that children should not have to worry about any day. Through the Foster Care Program of Connie Maxwell Children's Ministries, we strive to find families and opportunities to place children in an environment where these questions will not even be a passing fancy. To further this obligation, we actively recruit and support our foster parents who have felt the calling to help these children, and now we offer another incentive to further this level of support by providing a home for a dedicated family to live in and care for these children seeking healing."

To a couple prayerfully considering this opportunity, Reed says the benefits of fostering far outweigh the challenges. "Parenting is hard. Foster parenting is harder. Both parents should be on board, and they should be secure in their relationship. We are a close family at Connie Maxwell, and there will be lots of support for them!"

For additional information or to apply, contact Reed at preed@conniemaxwell.com.

Spiritual transformation begins at Connie Maxwell Baptist Church

BY JULIA BELL

Under the new strategic plan A Decade of Dreams, Connie Maxwell Children's Ministries lists Spiritual Formation as the number one dream as Faith, Family and Future are restored to its children. At Connie Maxwell Baptist Church, this dream will be intentionally realized in several ways, including teaching the Word of God to every child and family, exposure to local and international mission trip opportunities, creative worship, and unique gospel presentations. Spiritual Formation is also the foundation of Senior Pastor Stephen Johnson's ministry, which officially began in April 2020, but Connie Maxwell has been an important part of his family's story for much longer.

"We've wanted to be at Connie Maxwell since 2004 when my wife was a summer missionary here. We love and care for these kids and want them to know it, and to be able to show them Jesus through that," Johnson says.

According to Tim Duncan, Vice President for Programs and Services, Connie Maxwell Children's Ministries' emphasis over the years has been to serve tens of thousands of children and families in need with hope for a better future based on God's Word. This effort will continue "through the foundational message, weekly support groups, projects, and devotions. Connie Maxwell Baptist Church provides children and families opportunities for spiritual growth. Through the projects it offers, classes, worship experiences, and in conjunction with counseling our children and families feel the presence and support of God in their daily lives."

Alex Morrison

Johnson was joined in October 2020 by Associate Pastor of Music and Discipleship Alex Morrison, and together they have worked through the pandemic season to build relationships and offer meaningful worship and ministry opportunities. According to Johnson, "during COVID it was challenging to build relationships, but now we can be together more and have moments to show our love and speak the gospel into their lives."

More "moments" are being planned, including a June Vacation Bible School for residents, staff members' children, and the community at large. The church also offers Family Worship Guides as part of Connie Maxwell's strategic emphasis on Spiritual Formation. Consisting of a brief devotional based on the previous Sunday's sermon, a Bible verse, and a discussion question or two, the guides are designed to get families and cottage families digging deeper into the Word together. The guides will be available on the website soon.

"Discipleship starts in the home. For our church to do this effectively, we need the help of direct caregivers and church members engaging with their families during the week. These can definitely lead to gospel conversations," Johnson says.

Stephen Johnson

Connie Maxwell Baptist is planning a few late summer and fall events in anticipation of a more regular schedule. Johnson says church staff is excited about resuming Sunday School, Awana on Wednesday nights, and youth group activities. New creative arts activities are slated to begin on Sunday nights, including drama, art, music, praise team, and instruments. Johnson explains they are "working on reaching students with renewed excitement to participate in church activities and ministries."

Duncan recalls the meaningful ministry of "extraordinary" pastors and servants of Connie Maxwell Baptist Church over the years, a Body of Believers that live out their passion for serving God's children. He also sees God's calling and equipping for future ministry in the current leadership. "Their desire to be involved in people's lives and learn about the intricacies of the needs of others allow these gentlemen to create services and experiences that promote growth and healing. With each passing day, Stephen and Alex grow more passionate about their responsibility to care for these children and families in need as demonstrated in their unwavering devotion to share the Word of God in a variety of creative ways."

For his part, Johnson says the church "doesn't exist just for Connie Maxwell. Our desire is to be a community church that partners with the children's home. We exist to glorify God and equip the saints, and we want to give evangelistic opportunities like any church would."

Kassi and Stephen Johnson

Endowment established in honor of Miller and Kathy Murphy

BY JULIA BELL

Stephen Johnson was hired to replace Rev. Miller Murphy, who retired as the pastor of Connie Maxwell Baptist Church in June 2019. Miller and Kathy Murphy both served in various staff roles, promoted missions, raised a son, and loved countless children as their own before their retirement.

“I have considered it a blessing to serve our children, alumni, staff, and donors throughout my years at Connie Maxwell. I have also had the great joy to share about its ministry in countless churches across South Carolina,” Miller says.

In 1991 Miller was hired as Connie Maxwell’s Development Officer, then named the Director of Development the following year. His longest tenure would be as Director of Communications in Marketing, a role he held from 1994-2016. Miller reveled in promoting Connie Maxwell across South Carolina and beyond, and The Baptist Communicators Association recognized his work with awards in photography, videography, and design. Miller says the role also gave him more one-on-one time with the kids he loved so much.

“In communications, I was always taking photos of kids for the magazine. They couldn’t wait to see themselves, and I made sure they had copies. It always meant a lot to me when kids would ask about their own photos being used. The opportunity to be in the children’s lives has been so special,” he says.

During this time, Kathy also served in several staff positions at Connie Maxwell in addition to countless volunteer roles. Over the years, she’s ministered to hurting parents, provided support behind the scenes, and learned how to say goodbye to children she’s grown to love.

“The ultimate goal at Connie Maxwell is to reunite kids with their families. I remember the first child that I was close to that went back to her family, it was a wonderful thing but also devastating when she came to say goodbye. I cried because we were losing her from our family, yet she was being reunited with her own,” she recalls.

Miller and Kathy say missions were the highlight of their time at Connie Maxwell, and mission trips happen to mark the start and end of their tenure. They founded Connie Maxwell’s relationship with collegiate summer missionaries who serve each year on campus, which continues today. The couple also says it’s been a joy to watch how mission trips change the lives of children who get to experience them. To honor this passion, President Danny Nicholson announced a special endowment created for future Connie Maxwell children.

“I believe Miller and Kathy deserve a legacy, and mission trips give our kids the opportunity to do that.

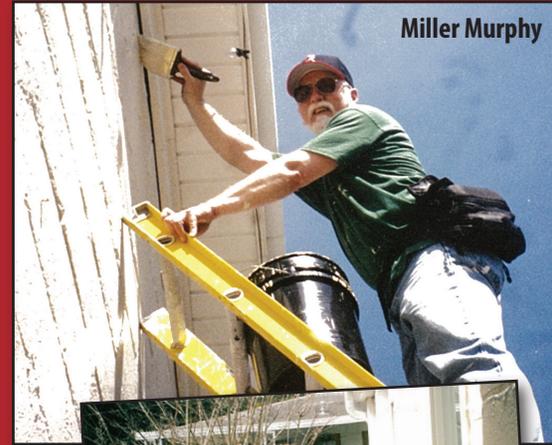

Debra and I are making the first contribution to the Miller and Kathy Murphy Mission Trip Endowment. Now kids who experience life change through missions will have Miller and Kathy’s names all over it,” Nicholson says.

Miller and Kathy spent their first few days of retirement becoming trained in Disaster Relief, a ministry they have been looking forward to joining. They plan to spend a lot more time with their son Andy, daughter-in-law Meredith and their grandson Luke. But they certainly won’t be strangers to Connie Maxwell.

“This is home. We’ve lived here longer than we’ve lived anywhere. The Connie Maxwell family is so huge, you can’t go anywhere in the state and not find part of this family,” Kathy says.

“God has a place for every one of us, and that’s what makes Connie Maxwell so special,” adds Miller.

If you would like to make a contribution tot the Miller and Kathy Murphy Mission Trip Endowment, please contact Eric Taylor at (864) 942-1446.

I have considered it a blessing to serve our children, alumni, staff, and donors throughout my years at Connie Maxwell.

LINDA TAYLOR HONORED

Linda Taylor has been named the recipient of the third annual 'Will you Come to Me in My Dreams Award.' She follows Randy McManus and Vernell Swinton, who were the first and second recipients of the award. Danny and Debra Nicholson established this endowment as a way to honor both their parents and pay tribute to the dedicated staff of Connie Maxwell.

Specifically, the award looks to honor someone who meets the following criteria: demonstrates forgiveness in personal ways to children and staff; lives a Godly example and makes disciples; has served a minimum of five years; serves with excellence and unconditional love; develops and nurtures relationships with outside individuals and churches; involved in campus activities beyond daily responsibilities; a team player.

Linda Taylor has served Connie Maxwell as both a houseparent and administrative assistant for 47 years. She is one of the longest-tenured employees of the ministry.

"It is an honor to recognize Linda Taylor for this award," said Nicholson. "Her service has been emblematic of the words commitment and sacrifice—words we cherish at Connie Maxwell. She has shown grace and leadership, even in her absence during the COVID crisis."

Linda Taylor announced her retirement at the end of October 2020. While she wasn't planning to retire so soon, she credits the virus for pushing her to make that decision.

"God works in mysterious ways," Taylor said. "After being home with Wayne, I knew I needed to remain there with him. When this virus is gone, I will be back again to volunteer in some way, I surely will."

Taylor reflected on her years at Connie Maxwell, acknowledging that even though some times have been difficult, God has been good through it all.

"This has been my blessing, to think I was here 47 years. It's hard for me to comprehend," said Taylor. "Looking back on it, I wouldn't change a thing."

She describes leaving Connie Maxwell almost like a death because she experienced raising her own son, current Vice President for Advancement Eric Taylor, on the campus as a young child at Connie Maxwell.

"I've seen my own child grow up here, finish high school, go to college, get married, have grandchildren, with so many other people," said Taylor. "It's been very difficult."

The adjustment has been so challenging, she now drives a different way through town to avoid seeing the Neb Cline Building. "I have had to look the other direction so that I won't cry," she said. "That's how close to my heart it is."

CHANGE SERVICE REQUESTED

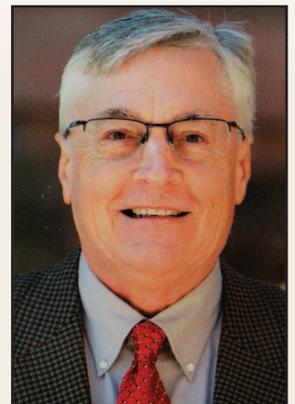

THE BEST HEROES

BY DOUG KAUFFMANN

Follow along as a young boy gets to experience one of his greatest adventures — a New York Giants football game! After reflecting on his experience, he realizes the important truth that not all heroes wear shoulder pads.

“This children’s book is more than a creative offering—it represents a lifetime of compassion to children,” said Connie Maxwell President William D. Nicholson II. “From this tender story with his father and his service as pastor, Doug Kauffmann’s life has been a testimony to thousands of children by beautifully illustrating not only his father’s love for him but the love of Christ to all Connie Maxwell children through the years.”

All of the book’s profits will continue that legacy of love by helping children and families at Connie Maxwell.
